We are looking for children 12-17 years of age

Why is this study being done?
The purpose of this research study is to learn more about the biological and psychological responses in children experiencing parental cancer.

What is involved?
We will collect:
- Information about physical and mental health
- Body and vital measurements
- Blood, hair, and saliva samples

Who are we looking for?
For this part of the research study, we are recruiting children from families without parental cancer.

Duration and Location
There will be 3 study visits over 18 months. All visits will take place at the University of Pittsburgh.
