Researchers at the University of Pittsburgh are conducting a research computer study to learn more about children’s experiences and about the impact treatment has on having mood and behavioral problems.

Participants will be asked to complete a computer questionnaire and a face to face interview about health, mood, and behaviors. No computer experience is necessary. One visit lasting approximately 2-4 hours will be required. Volunteers will be compensated for their time.

Eligibility:
• Boys and girls
• Must be between 7 and 17 years old
• Must be currently receiving treatment for a mood or behavioral problem
• Parent or legal guardian must be willing to participate
